

Mike Lewis

Marketing Director for SILVERTEL (EMEA and Rest of World Regions)

Mike has worked in the electronics industry for over 40 years, starting his career as an engineer with Plessey Naval Systems. He moved to Mitel Semiconductor (now Microchip), progressing to a senior management role in R&D. After 17 years, he joined a family-owned business, head-quartered in Germany with a subsidiary in Cardiff, where he served as Technical Director for 14 years developing thermo-electric products.

More recently he has worked at SILVERTEL for just over 5 years as their Sales & Marketing Director. He has been actively involved in new product design and development throughout his career, working on analogue and digital signal processing projects, developing analogue telephony, timing & synchronisation products and more recently analogue power management devices with SILVERTEL.